Re: GN Docket No. 13-86

Please note this letter in opposition to any lessening of the current indecency policy of the FCC.

I specifically refer to nudity, the “F” word, and other expressions which dramatically differ from the norms of current societal standards.

There is a major difference between tolerating a celebrity’s “accidental” use of vulgar speech and in deliberately scripting it in a television/radio broadcast. Further, one may claim a “wardrobe malfunction” and be excused, but nudity in front of a camera is a planned event with a desired outcome (whatever it may be).

Society is capable of defining and monitoring itself without the benefit of script writers seeking to shock, sensationalize, and promote their agendas de jour.

Sincerely,

David J. Mills
